The ANIMAL RESEARCH MAGAZINE is published periodically at $4.00 per year or $6.00 for two years. This is the official publication of the Animal Research Foundation. Membership in this organization is $5.00 for one year. ARF Record Book is $5.00 - Pad of 25 Pedigrees is $1.00. All of this for $10.00 to Certified Breeders which includes Magazine, Record Book, 25 Pedigrees and ARF Membership for one year. After first year only $5.00 each year. Extra Pedigrees will be $1.00 per pad. All money paid in goes to pay for publishing magazine. As the Animal Research Foundation is a non-profit organization, we certainly appreciate your help.

The Animal Research Foundation is dedicated to research, recognition and registration of all purebred livestock, working dogs and new canine breeds. ARF also registers new breeds of cattle, horses and hogs, develops new breeds and helps the old ones. The ANIMAL RESEARCH MAGAZINE is primarily to preserve and promote good working qualities of the stockdog.

We have a system of breeding to blend all crossbred cattle into one breed of Poled White D'Lish.

EDITOR'S NOTES

The work of the Animal Research Foundation has gained so fast it is almost impossible to keep up with everything. The Dingo has proved a great success. The Golden Collie Dingo is surely gaining fast as watch dogs and pets in the cities as well as cattle dogs on the largest ranches.

I have a 7-month old Golden Collie Dingo male that has been raised with the big sows and pigs. This Golden Dingo will drive the big sows but absolutely will not touch a baby pig with his teeth. He will pinch the big sows though to make them move. The Golden Dingo will bump the baby pigs with his nose or slap them with his foot but will not bite the baby pigs. If only I had enough of these Golden Collie Dingo pups but the day is near when they will be one of the leading breeds.

The American Shepherd is a breed the ARF has put in a lot of work with as so many people bred Imported Border Collie females to English Shepherds trying to get better cattle dogs. As English Shepherds were heelers and Border Collies were herders, you could never tell what style of work the American Shepherd would have.

We hit the jackpot when the ARF bred Australian Shepherds, Kelpies and Dingoes into the American Shepherd. As we had so many different breeds bred into the American Shepherd, the Dingo blood took over. For the man who doesn't have the time to train a stock dog and wants a natural born stock dog that is born with natural instinct to work cattle, the American Shepherd Dingo is the answer.

The Catahoula Dingo is the "DREAM DOG" for the man with wild cattle in brush. These dogs hold them at bay and hold the cows until you get there. And when you hollar "Put the cows out of the brush!" the Catahoulas will put the cattle out of the brush as they drive cattle as well as lead them. Catahoula Dingoes are also good to work cattle in pens and to load them.

The ARF developed the American Shepherd trying to keep the Border Collie and English Shepherd pure. It is sickening to see Border Collies in the English Shepherd class, as a baby can tell a Border Collie from an English Shepherd - different style of work and head make the difference. The ARF has developed new breeds of dogs but we keep records so we know what we are doing, and we do not register Border Collies as English Shepherds!

ARF Sheep Dog Trials have been a great success, as they are open shows and everyone with a trial dog can take part. This will be the 6th year for the ARF Sheep Dog Trial to be held the last Saturday in October.

This year the trials at San Saba, Texas, will be the 24th of October which is the Saturday before the trials here at Quinlan.

The week following the trials at San Saba and before the trials at Quinlan, I hope the leading trial men of the nation will meet here to work out events for Sheep Dog Trials which will be new events. The first day of the trials, the ARF trials will be like they have been in the past. The following day the Sheep Dog Trials will be the two man-two dog brace teams. Lewis Pulfer and Lewis Pence from Ohio won the brace team last year and I am wondering who can compete with them this year as they will be back to defend their title as the Champion Brace Team from Ohio. I am hoping a number of states will have brace teams too.

There isn't any telling what we will come up with for the second day of the ARF trials if the leading trial men meet here for a week research work on new events.

There will be a rare breed dog show in Fontana, California Sunday, October 25th which will make it impossible to go because of the Sheep Dog Trials at San Saba the day before, also the trials here at Quinlan the following Saturday. There will be classes for ARF Registered Catahoula Leopards, Australian, English and American Shepherds. Also Border Collies. The ARF is sending Texas trophies for the 1st Place winners. ARF Registered Chinese Crested, Mexican Hairless and Peek-A-Poos will also have a class in the rare breed show (Finnish Spitz too).

For more information write: Gus D. Bell, 3933 Robin Hill Road, Pasadena, California 91103.

There is a great future for these rare breed shows and everyone interested in helping sponsor a rare breed dog show in your city should write the ARF here in Quinlan, Texas, and we will try to help you. I truly believe the ARF Open Rare Breed Shows will attract just as much attention as any AKC Show and one

PROGRESS PROGRAM OF THE ANIMAL RESEARCH FOUNDATION

By Tom D. Stodghill

The purpose of the Animal Research Foundation is to PROTECT OUR AMERICAN HERITAGE, FREEDOM OF SPEECH, THE PRIVILEGE TO THINK FOR OURSELVES AND FOR EACH AND EVERYONE TO USE THEIR OWN JUDGMENT TO WORK OUT NEW SYSTEMS OF BREEDING AND WHEN A SYSTEM IS A PROVEN SUCCESS, AS A MEMBER OF THE ARF YOUR SYSTEM WILL BE PUBLISHED IN THE STODGHILL ANIMAL RESEARCH MAGAZINE TO MAKE IT POSSIBLE FOR OTHERS TO TAKE ADVANTAGE OF YOUR EXPERIENCE.

The ARF is set up to register working stock dogs, all rare breeds and all new breeds of dogs, new breeds of cattle, horses and hogs.

As a member of the ARF YOU ARE A COG IN THE WHEEL OF PROGRESS TO PROTECT OUR AMERICAN HERITAGE.

I truly believe in the freedom of speech, also believe in DIGNITY and SELF-RESPECT as well as respect for others. I hope we will always have the right to report the news as it happened; I do not want a law against reporting the news. I truly believe we should use good judgment in reporting the news though because I don't believe crime should be published on the front page of a newspaper or do I believe it should be dramatized on TV or on the radio.

Look back over the years and study what dramatizing crime has done to increase crime. Back in 1927 when Charles A. Lindbergh's baby was kidnapped it shocked the world and everyone wanted to help. At the time it looked like the news did a wonderful job trying to abolish crime but time has proved it didn't work that way. The publicity the news gave Charles A. Lindbergh caused kidnapping to increase over 40%.

thing for sure, the ARF will not push anyone back.

The ARF has been offered all kinds of deals to move the ARF Registration Office to Dallas and a man in Fort Worth offered free rent in an air conditioned building, private office, in a modern pet shop in Fort Worth.

The ARF Registration Office is already established here in Quinlan. Everyone knows where we are; we are also easy for everyone to find. I hope to always keep the ARF Registration Office here where it is now, as we are set up to stay in business and to have one of the world's largest registration offices.

The world was shocked again when President Kennedy was assassinated. I truly believe that everyone was in sympathy with the great news report on the life of President Kennedy. In the history of the world there was never anything so completely covered by the news as the tragic death of President Kennedy. Everyone was trying to glorify and praise the great president, also to mourn his death.

But look what happened to Robert Kennedy and to numerous other innocent people just because there was so much on the news about the tragic death of the president.

The long haired Beatles came here from England and the news gave them so much free publicity and dramatized the amount of money they made, so now look what it has done to our youth of America.

It seems to me that the freedom of speech and freedom of the news is a privilege we are going to loose in America if we don't be more careful how crime is dramatized in the news; it is going to destroy America.

I believe all news reporters should study how Hitler came into power in Germany. It was free publicity of the press. Communism could be destroyed if the world news would stop giving them free publicity.

Only about 15 people took part in the first riot on the college campus in California. Over 90% of the students at that college didn't know anything about the riot until they saw it on the front page of a daily newspaper and saw a picture on TV. A cheap news reporter who wanted personal gain cost America's colleges millions of dollars. This one incident lead to the death of the four students. Communism and riots can only be stopped if they would stop getting free publicity and complete news coverage.

This summer my daughter, Billie Jameson, visited Japan. She said the people in Japan were trying to imitate Americans as we have the richest nation in the world and people in other nations are trying to be like Americans. She said she believed the best foreign policy for the USA would be for each and every American to live like a true American and set a good example for people in other nations to go by. She also said she was shocked and ashamed of what she read in the newspapers in Japan about what was going on in America. It seems to me the best thing each and every American can do to change world opinion of America is for each and

BUILDING A HAPPY HOME

BY DIANE TUCK

Mr. Stodghill cares so much for other people, that he has begun a column to help his fellow-man to lead a happier life. I am happy to be able to contribute to this column because I like to help other people too.

It doesn't matter what you look like, or how old you are, or the kind of work and recreation you enjoy; all the varied personalities that make up our human family can all be happy. If you are married, it is nice to share common interests and goals. But whether a marriage has shared interests or not, it can survive happily with one ingredient. This one thing I am about to relate to you is something I have discovered and applied to my own family life. So when I tell you that it cannot fail, I am speaking from experience.

The Bible says "Happy are those conscious of their spiritual need" - this is everyone to live like an American....true Americans!

I hope the ARF can promote a way of life to make the young people in America think right and have a great desire to do their best. A college education is to teach the young people what the old people already know. In fact, the most advanced things of the past are taught in the schools to make it possible for the young people to do more work in less time.

I believe the greatest mistake any father and mother can make is to tell their children to get a college education so they will not have to work. The idea for a college education is to do more work in less time and to KNOW HOW TO PROMOTE THE BETTER WAYS OF LIFE.

When I was a small boy, my greatest desire was to be a man...I wanted to be as much like my father as possible and until this day, I find myself still trying to do what my father and mother taught me when I was a small boy. It is easy to get people to do what you do yourself, but it is almost impossible to get anyone to do what you tell them to do unless you do this yourself.

I would like to have every true American a member of the Animal Research Foundation Progress Program. All money paid in to the Animal Research Foundation will go to print a bigger and better ARF Magazine and to promote the Old Pioneer American Spirit. - Tom D. Stodghill the key to a happy home. For those who are conscious of their spiritual need will seek to know God and to apply His instruction in their lives. And this is absolutely guaranteed to bring these sincere ones the happiness they are seeking.

There is a popular song being sung today expressing the need for youth to learn the Truth. Well, people of all ages need to learn the truth. Where is the Truth? I've found it. It's written in the Bible. And for all of you who laugh at this and say that the Bible cannot be understood or that it is a myth, I want to ask you this: Have you ever even read the Bible or are you just saying what someone else has told you? Those who say that the Bible cannot be understood simply do not understand it themselves. That doesn't mean that others cannot understand it. The Bible is the one book that is inspired by the Almighty God who created us. He provided it for us so that we would have understanding of Him. In Romans 15:4 it says "All the things that were written aforetime were written for our instruction", and 2 Timothy 3:16 we are told that "All scripture is inspired of God and Beneficial". And Psalms 119:160 tells us that "The substance of your word is truth"...so here is the answer to the song and for all of you seeking to better your lives and your homes.

How can the Bible help my homelife? you may ask. Many, many centuries ago, "Jehovah God proceeded to build the rib that he had taken from the man into a woman and to bring her to the man. Then the man said: 'This is at last bone of my bones and flesh of my flesh. This one will be called Woman, because from man this one was taken.' That is why a man will leave his father and his mother and he must stick to his wife and they must become one flesh." and "God proceeded to create the man in his image, in God's image he created him; male and female he created them. Further, God blessed them and God said to them 'Be fruitful and become many and fill the earth and subdue it.'"

God performed the first marriage ceremony way back then. This same One who made us, and married us, is naturally the best authority for us to go to learn how to build a happy home. And in His inspired word, the Bible, He has given us instruction in building a happy home.

Just as an example of this fine instruction, let us suppose that one marriage partner was becoming interested in another person outside the marriage. Many readers know the heartache and grief that accompany such straying interests. Yet if this person would look to the Bible, he or she would find the instruction very clear: "Let marriage be honorable among all, and the marriage bed be without defilement, for God will judge fornicators and adulterers." Hebrews 13:4. The Bible also advises in 1 Corinthians 7:3,5 "Let the husband render to his wife her due; but let the wife also do likewise to her husband", "do not be depriving each other of it except by mutual consent for an appointed time." It ought to be the earnest desire of both husband and wife to help each other to avoid any temptation to wrongdoing. They can do this by showing unselfish consideration for each other.

Many women try to "wear the pants" in the family. The Bible advises us on this too, saying: "at Ephesians 5:33 that the wife should 'have deep respect for her husband' and at Titus 2:4,5 'That they may recall the young women to their senses to love their husbands, to love their children, to be sound in mind, chaste, workers at home, good, subjecting themselves to their own husbands.'" At Ephesians 5:23 it is recorded that "a husband is head of his wife as the Christ is the head of the congregation."

Men, it is good to remember the wise counsel at Ephesians 5:25 "Continue loving your wives, just as the Christ also loved the congregation and delivered up himself for it." So doing, they will not be overly demanding of their wives, but will handle family affairs in a way that refreshes everyone concerned." Matthew 11:28,30.

Going back to the book of Genesis where it spoke of the "two becoming one flesh", this is a good reminder for us all to seek in our marriages; first, a deep love for our partner, and second, to be drawn together in unity of purpose.

There is so much advice on marriage and raising children, I couldn't possibly put it all down in this short article. It is there, and the Bible is found in practically all homes. It helps if you have an index in your Bible to help you find the advice you need. The important thing though, is for you to at least look to the Bible for advice.

There is much that can be done in every home in building toward a happier family life. Apply Bible counsel as we are doing in our family, and there will be good results. Let each one in the household lovingly seek the welfare of the others, thus strengthening family ties (Colossians 3:14). Above all, share unitedly in true worship so that all of you together will enjoy the rich blessing of Jehovah God, the One who can crown your happiness with eternal life (Prov. 3:11, 18.)

Don't just take my word for it; open your Bible and find out. And don't laugh at the idea of turning to God's word for advice until you've tried it. How do you know that "It's not your bag until you've tried the 'bag' on to see if it fits?"

" RARE BREEDS SHOW IN CALIFORNIA " By Elsie Cotton

A most unusual Conformation Show is in the planning stage that will, we feel, create a great deal of interest within our Membership. This is a "Rare Breeds Dog Show" which is accepting entries from the owners of many unusual breeds of dogs and, among these, entries are being accepted for our breed (Australian Shepherd). It is expected that the total entry of Australian Shepherds will exceed 100. It is also expected that many entries will come from Catahoulas, English Shepherds, Akitas, Bichon, Miniature Bull Terriers, Staffordshire Terriers, etc.

This show will be held at the Orange Empire Dog Club grounds in Fontana, California on the 25th of October 1970 and the full details and entry blanks can be obtained from Gus D. Bell, 3933 Robin Hill Road, Pasadena, California 91103.

This will be the ideal way to show off our breed as the show cannot help but generate a great deal of interest among the general public. Also, an added incentive is that the Animal Research Foundation of Quinlan, Texas, is offering special trophies for 1st, 2nd and 3rd placements for the Best ARF Registered dogs at the show.

" SINCERE APOLOGIES "

The magazine is late as the envelope with most of the copy and photos for this edition was lost in the mail when I sent it to Chicago. Loosing this envelope caused us to loose much time in putting the magazine together. I kept waiting for Carol Lee to mail the manuscript to me so I could carry it to the printer and she kept waiting on me to send the material to her so she could type it. When I phoned, I found out she never received that envelope after all.

I am sure you understand our predicament and again, please accept our apologies for not being able to send our latest edition of the magazine out to you sooner.

Letters To The Editor...

"DOG COLUMNIST WRITES"

As a local dog columnist, I often get calls on unusual breeds of dog. One breed often asked about is the Catahoula Leopard Dog. Is there such a thing? If so, what is it like, etc? For some time I have been aware that there is such a breed but I do not have any other information on the breed.

Could you send me some information on the Catahoula? I would like to do an article describing the dogs, their ancestry, their function, and some human interest material on their personality; any interesting facts. If there is a sample copy of the breed magazine available, would you send it also, and I will be happy to reimburse you.

I realize that taking the time to jot down this information is difficult, but I and my readership would most appreciate it. Perhaps we may even uncover some people interested in owning one of the breed in Northern Alabama.

Thank you for your consideration, and for any information which you can provide.

Sincerely,

"ENGLISH SHEPHERD FANCIER"

Please send prices on a pair of Old Fashioned Black-Tan English Shepherds. I have a few cows, a few sheep, a Morgan stud, and I love dogs. I'd love to be a breeder of the real cow dog - the English Shepherd. I love good old fashioned honest people as I came out of the hills of Missouri. Before I hurt my leg, I raised sheep, mules and cattle. I love your magazine. Also, tell me more about registering dogs and horses. I'll send money to become a Certified Breeder. Thank you in advance for your kindness.

"INTERESTED IN WORKING KELPIE"

I saw your name in the Animal Research Magazine. It was in connection with Kelpies.

Although I know nothing of this breed it interests me very much. I have been raising Shetland Sheepdogs but just can't seem to find much working ability. I think it is there - my male does try, but not strong enough to suit me.

We live in stock country - many sheep, and I would like to raise a working bred dog. I was wondering if you could tell me where I can get more information on the Kelpie and some addresses of breeders. Thank you.

"ANOTHER NEW ARF CERTIFIED BREEDER"

I received your very nice letter. I'm enclosing $15.00 - $10.00 for membership in the ARF to include the record book, pad of pedigrees, one year's membership and each new edition of the magazine; $5.00 for 1 each of the eleven old editions with the history of the breed of Australian Shepherd.

I live very close to Mrs. Bernard Ely. Her family farmed where our house is. I have bought "Colo. Queen" from Mrs. Ely and will buy an unrelated stud from her later.

Well, thanking you and anxious to get started.

"INTERESTED IN ARF TRIALS"

We would like to come see your next Stock Dog Trials. Will it be in October? What day? How much are the tickets?

Also, I want a one year subscription to your Animal Research Magazine, especially the one that has my ad in it.

Past two years we've been living in Baton Rouge, Louisiana, but now we are back.

Am inclosing money for the magazine subscription and if you will let me know how much the ad will be, I'll send you a check by return mail.

Thank you and we'll be waiting to hear from you.

"BREEDER OF JUMBO CHIHUAHUA"

I am excited over the project of breeding the Chihuahua into a larger breed of guard dog - the Jumbo Chihuahua. They have in them exactly what I expected. I have raised these little dogs for quite a few years and I find them very aggressive and very obedient dogs. So since they are the dog I was more acquainted with in nature, I couldn't help but wonder if their size came up to their bark, they sure would be something else...and they are!

I started using the Clock-Wise Breeding Chart until I have this Jumbo Chihuahua Guard Dog and I may add it is quite a different breed of a dog. So I was really thrilled February 4, 1970, when I called you and you said you would register them for me.

I think I've found in these little dogs the nature and ability that I hoped to find, a good watch dog for children and a good guard dog. He watches the kennel and feels it his whole responsibility to take charge of things. He does mean business when he gives a low growl and snarl "Stand back"! And for a 20 pounder, he is mighty fine little watch dog. I have wondered since I've started this project of breeding the Chihuahua into a guard dog why it hasn't already been done. These dogs are so ready to please and to do what they are told to do.

I have been training my dogs myself through obedience training. Paul helps evenings after work and we work with the German Shepherds; we enjoy working with our dogs. "Snow Ann", the German Shepherd, belongs to Paul. She obeys his commands. "Beauty Doll" is mine. They have decided that on their own. "Frisky" loves us both.

We are hoping to attend the trials in San Saba on October 24th, not to bring a dog, just to attend and watch the trials. Thank you again and bye for now.

LUCKY SHEP TRUE
BLACK-TAN ENGLISH SHEPHERD

ALL ABOUT --- English Shepherds

" LETTER FROM SOMEONE WHO APPRECIATES ENGLISH SHEPHERDS "

I am an old customer writing about another black and tan English Shepherd Dog. I have had three of your black and tan English Shepherds.

The first one, 20 years ago, was "Shag", a pup of Bozos and the best dog that ever was unless it was his father "Bozo". "Shag" was killed at 8 years but he left a pup that in every way, was like "Bozo", his grandfather. We named him "Rex" and he lived up to the name. He knew more about the place here than we did. I had thought of writing you about him and trying to get a litter of pups from him, but at 13 years last week, we found him dead by the front door which he guarded all his life.

After "Shag" we got "Pat", out of "Bhodark". Then "Rocky". They have all been wonderful "all around" dogs. We still have "Rocky" and he is six now, I think, and is just beautiful.

I am writing you to see what you have in the way of a pup - male or female - I'd like a black and tan with a black mask face.

Very truly,
Mrs. J. V. Chambers
Okolona, Arkansas

EDITOR'S ANSWER:

It always makes me feel good to get a letter from an old customer like you.

"Old Bozo" was the dog that saved the English Shepherd breed. I have bred Clock-Wise to preserve all the good qualities of "Old Bozo".

"Prince" (Reg. #59-1675), a true companion, owned by H. C. Testerman of Tomahawk, Kentucky.

What I mean by breeding Clock-Wise, is that I breed two unrelated females to "Old Bozo" then I bred pups from these two litters together. Both litters being sired by "Old Bozo" and out of unrelated females.

I would breed two more females to "Old Bozo" unrelated to each other, also unrelated to the first two females, then breed pups out of these two litters together.

Now I have two litters of pups out of 4 unrelated females but all carry 50% of "Old Bozo". Now when I blend these two matings together, I have 12½% of 4 different females and I have held a 50% controlling gene from "Old Bozo". By holding a 50% controlling gene from "Old Bozo", all my pups are like "Old Bozo".

I have sold all my English Shepherd pups but will have two litters and will be glad to book your order for a pup, male or female, and I will ship as soon as I have a pup. As these pups are bred Clock-Wise, the pup will be like your "Bozo" pup was. Since you have had this "Bozo" line for 20 years, you know what to expect.

I am getting $100 for these "Bozo" Clock-Wise bred pups but as you are an old customer, I will let you have a female for $50. If you will also send me a pup out of the female or a male pup for $50 if you will send me a pup sired by the male I send you. Or I will let you have a pair for $100 if you will send me a pair of pups out of the first litter of pups you raise. The pups I get back from you and others, I sell pups to is what makes it possible for me to carry on my Clock-Wise Breeding Program and have more good pups for you when you loose your faithful dog. Have to think ahead to always have pups coming in that will be bred right. (I am printing your letter in the ARF Magazine, as what you say should help others who want a good dog.)

LOST DOG

If anyone sees or hears about a big sable male English Shepherd that is new in your area, try to find out for sure where he came from. It is possible someone might find this wonderful dog.

This English Shepherd is owned by Mrs. John Barnes (Warm Springs, Georgia 31830) and Mrs. Barnes tells us that if her dog would be returned, there would be no questions asked. She said she would give a pup sired by this fine dog to the person who returned him or to the person who would give her the information where this dog could be found.

We had planned to print a picture of this dog but it unfortunately was lost in the mail. Never the less, Mrs. Barnes would appreciate any information or help in locating this fine English Shepherd.

" A HAPPY FAMILY "

By Judy Pylate

Two weeks ago today Mr. Stodghill made a little boy (Danny) and a little girl (Paige) the happiest kids alive. Now two weeks later, a mama wants to thank him.

My husband is a farmer here in Eudora, Arkansas. We get up every morning around 5 a.m. so I can get him to the field with a full stomach. As soon as his pick-up pulls off, our "Happy" sets up a howl. I usually go get him and bring him inside with me. Then for the next two hours until I get the children up, he and I talk and play. He usually carries all the dirty clothes I'm sorting under the bed and things like that, but we get along.

I would love to get into the dog business, but regret now I have neither the time nor the space. We are living in town but eventually do want to build our "dream house" on the farm.

"Happy" is fine. We all love him to death, and I'm afraid he is going to be mighty spoiled. He's healthy, spunky with a little of the Shepherd gentleness mixed in. We do appreciate Mr. Stodghill's haste in getting him to us so quickly. And, as I said, Mr. Stodghill has already made two "little ones" mighty "happy"!

Border Collie News

" JUDGING THE BORDER COLLIE " By Preston Robinson

The last thing that we want for our Border Collies is a standard. The only thing that we breed our dogs for is their ability to handle sheep and you can't do that if you breed for color, size of head or shape of body.

The people of Scotland, England and Wales have stayed with the idea that the Border Collie should be a working dog. If his color is black with ring neck and white points that is fine. If he is black and tan, white with black spots or a red dog, that is alright too. They also let their ability to work sheep take care of the kind of body that they have. You could take all of the pictures of the top winning dogs of the trials across the U. S. and Scotland and then take a bunch of pictures of other Border Collies and some dogs that were not full Border Collies then mix the pictures up and if you did not know the dogs, you could not tell which were the top working dogs.

I know that a large number of the Border Collies are winning the obedience trials. We also know that these same dogs will be advertised in the stud as champion Border Collies. We will have to be careful what champion dogs we breed to.

" REGISTERING IN THE ANIMAL RESEARCH FOUNDATION "

One of our readers from Mississippi wrote the Animal Research Foundation requesting registration information. It seems that she was considering breeding her ARF registered female to a male dog that is now registered in the United Kennel Club. Her question was: "Could the offspring be registered in the Animal Research Foundation and if the Foundation does recognize registration by the UKC, could the male be registered by the ARF."

The answers to these very important questions are simply this. You need not registered a UKC dog in the Animal Research Foundation in order to register the pups. The ARF never changes the number of a registered dog.

If he wishes, the customer could just fill in the ARF pedigree using UKC numbers and in the place where it says VOLUMN, write "UKC" so it will be apparent that the numbers are United Kennel Club numbers and not those given by the ARF.

We do give the pups ARF numbers, of course, but you can easily trace the breeding from the Animal Research Foundation back to the United Kennel Club. You can always trace the breeding of an ARF registered dog.

I am writing to let you know when the Canadian Trials are this year. It is rather short notice I'm afraid but if it is in time for one of the ARF publications, we would be very grateful, if not, it can't be helped.

Our Canadian Trials will be held:

You will have heard of the death of our former judge Mr. John Mackinnon, so this year our trial is being judged by his son Angus, who was also a handler and judge in Scotland, now residing in Toronto.

Any further inquiries as regards the trials should be made either to my husband, Bill McMichael or Mrs. Jean Metheral (S/T), R. R. 1, Glen Huron, Ontario.

May I continue by saying that we enjoy the Animal Research Magazine and also to notify you that we have had a change of address from Alliston to:
Wm. McMichael, R. R. 1, Bradford,
Ontario, Canada.

English Shepherd and several registries for other breeds, many times the sire will be registered in the UKC, the dam in another and we use numbers from both registries. You can trace the breeding by the VOLUMN and we give the pups ARF numbers.

This is "Baldy" a red and white pure Border Collie of the "Kyneton" strain. "Baldy" is 22 inches tall and weighs 50 pounds. At one time the magazine's Associate Editor, Carol Lee Alberts, was considering reinstating the good working qualities into the Scotch Collie. If Scotch Collies already possessing these herding abilities would not be available, then the next best and closest to the Scotch Collie would be the Border Collie. Rod Berry from New South Wales, Australia, suggested that "Baldy" would have been the dog that could have helped a great deal in breeding to the Scotch Collie eventually reinstating those desired working qualities.

Catahoula Leopard Stockdogs

By Tom D. Stodghill

This is the season for Catahoula Leopard Stockdogs for trained cowdogs as well as for dogs for wild hogs. South Carolina, California and Florida have hunting seasons for wild hogs just like they do for deer and bear.

Near Columbia, South Carolina, there is a 30,000 acre swamp where they have hunting lodges where they hunt wild hogs in boats. Anywhere they see signs of wild hogs they turn the dogs loose and when the dogs bay the wild hogs, the men slip up as close as possible to the dogs and shoot the wild hogs. A dog that isn't gun shy is very important because a lot of men will slip up just a few feet of the dogs and shoot the hogs. The dogs soon learn to associate the gun with the wild hogs. Dogs will even go to a gun when they hear it fired, but if a dog never heard a gun fired and the men shot too close to them when firing the gun, this could ruin a good dog. This is where a deaf dog would come in handy as they cannot hear a gun fired. Deaf dogs are almost a thing of the past in Catahoula Leopards because with the ARF Breeding Program and so many proven lines, you don't get deaf pups.

Time has proved that if you want dogs which will stop wild cows from running and bay wild hogs, you need to have a few glass eyed pups in every litter. This doesn't mean glass eyed dogs will always stop wild cows and bay them, but one thing for sure, out of a litter where there are a few glass eyed pups, they are more apt to stop wild cows and bay hogs.

As I understand it, in California the wild hogs are in the mountains and they hunt wild hogs in jeeps and are not allowed to use but two dogs to hunt hogs. When the Catahoulas bay them, the dogs also kill the hogs and haul them in a jeep.

In Oklahoma, Texas and Louisiana, very few wild hogs are ever shot. They are penned and hundreds of woods hogs are caught and hauled to trades days and sold. On free range in Oklahoma, wild hogs are fed a little shelled corn about like you would feed birds. Corn is put out and hogs come to eat when everyone is gone. These hogs are wild and it takes a man with experience and good dogs to catch them.

Florida seems to have as many wild hogs as any state but in Florida everyone seems to have a different style of hunting them. Florida orders more cowdogs than any state. They also order a lot of wild hog-dogs. Have to have dogs there to get the cattle out of the swamps. They loose so many dogs with heart worms so many dogs are shipped to Florida. We have been lucky not to have heart worms.

I believe the ARF has hook worms, pen worms and heart worms whipped with medicated litter. Every day pick up the droppings and all damp litter and cover these spots with new medicated litter. We know for a fact this medicated litter will kill fleas, mange mites, ants, all kinds of insects. When you get rid of fleas, we find we get rid of tape worms too.

By worming dogs good and putting them on Stodghill's ARF Medicated Litter and picking up droppings every day covering these spots with more medicated litter, then worming the dogs again in 14 days to be sure you get rid of all the eggs, we truly believe we can keep dogs free from worms.

Medicated Litter lasts longer in houses that are dry. In pens on the outside, you need to cover the ground with new Medicated Litter every time it rains but the litter builds up, also dries out and doesn't take as much to cover the ground in a pen after a rain as it does to start with.

In pens where you use Medicated Litter, do not clean out any of the litter unless it gets wet. On outside pens where the sun shines on the ground, the litter will dry out but you need a light cover after each rain. In rainy weather, the Medicated Litter builds up to where the pens don't even get muddy.

Stodghill's ARF Medicated Litter can be used for bedding for sows and pigs. It will kill mange mites, hog lice and all indications lead to make us believe that if sows are wormed good before they are bred and kept on Medicated Litter, you can raise pigs free from all intestinal worms, mange and hog lice.

By keeping the ground covered around the barn and feed lots with this litter, it will help to keep sheep and cattle free from stomach worms of all kinds. Also help to keep ground covered with Medicated Litter in your saddle horses' stalls.

You can fill a burlap bag with this litter where cows walk under the bag. It should be tied at each end and as cows are driven down this lane (wide enough for one cow to get through) they lower their head to go under this sack and raise up this 100 pound bag. This medicates their backs and keeps flies away.

I feel that Stodghill's ARF Medicated Litter has a great future and will help a lot of people. It is a product that will be in great demand in every nation throughout the world. In the future, it will be possible to medicate the soil making it easier to raise pups, pigs, lambs and calves. Also good to spread in your yard to keep chiggers off your children and around lakes where people fish.

I have put in many years with the English Shepherd Club of America Animal Research Foundation. My greatest desire has been to make the ARF world-wide and set up in every nation to preserve our Pioneer American way of life. The ARF is the most imitated registry in the world. We must be on the right road or a school teacher, a preacher and a doctor's son would not be trying to imitate what I am doing. I kept working harder but now I believe this Stodghill's ARF Medicated Litter is something that is in so much in demand that I hope by patents and copyrights, I can hold onto this Medicated Litter and have franchises in every state and in every country.

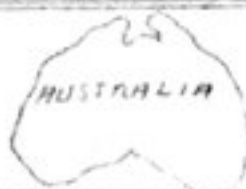

If Stodghill's ARF Medicated Litter becomes as successful as it is really needed, it will be possible to make enough money to enable us to publish Stodghill's ARF Magazine every month and not only periodically.

" FAITHFULNESS "

The following article originally published in "Aussie Times" was submitted by Australian Shepherd Club of America Vice President Elsie B. Cotton. It is a true account of one Aussie's faithfulness in time of need.

Bill and Faye Brooks were caretakers of the Juncal Dam, located in back of Santa Barbara, California. During the storms of January and February 1969 they had to keep the phone lines in repair for the dam was full and they would have to warn the town below in case it got dangerous. Where they crossed the stream, it was only knee deep, but this second storm had made a new channel 6 to 8 feet deep. The current was so strong it swept them both away. Faye left Bill's unconscious body near her, but the current either swept him to a tree stump, or he swam there.

Faye was swept under again and she came up in a shallow pool. She was able to crawl out on her hands and knees - just able to hold her head above water. She heard Bill call "Honey, I'm up here." Hurrying up stream to him, she saw that his right hand was caught. She broke the roots and Bill reached for Faye's hand. Within 30 seconds, Bill's jaw went slack and his eyes glazed over and he went under for good. After a few terrible minutes, Faye realized she couldn't do anything for Bill and she tried to get back to the cabin. Although the water wasn't as high, she was afraid she would panic if she tried to re-cross. This all happened about 1 P.M. Wednesday afternoon. She put some sticks in a tree crotch and made a grass house for the night. With her all this time was "Ladybird", their 5 year old blue merle Aussie, who she got as a pup in Atascadero, California. She wrote that if it hadn't have been for "Ladybird", she didn't think she could have survived the night, for the dog kept licking her and

" AUSTRALIAN CATTLE DOGS IN CANADA "
By Mrs. Bruce Browncombe

A while back I wrote to a breeder of Australian Cattle Dogs who advertised pups in the Free Press, a Canada-wide farm magazine. I was interested because they also lived in British Columbia. Though I received no answer, the George Gammies were busy getting photographs in preparation to answer. Not long after, our neighbor from Oregon, Larry Jones, moved in and he had a pup from the Gammie's female "Digger". When he wanted to pick up a young jenny from the Gammie's ranch we decided to go along.

kept her circulation going, and held her body heat. Of course after the awful time she lived through, "Ladybird" was a comfort just to have been close to her.

David, their son, walked seven miles and first found Bill's body and he then was lead to Faye by "Ladybird" the next day at 2:30.

That is about all the story. Faye will be living in Atascadero after September working in a hospital. "Ladybird" will be her only companion now, but she has Bill's last words to remember -- "Honey, I'm up here."

The re-print from the Newsletter was only the beginning of "Ladybird's" story. Our President, Gwen Stevenson, is also the President of the "Haven Humane Society" in Shasta County, California. Mrs. Stevenson brought this story to the attention of the balance of the officers of "Haven" and they conducted a thorough research into this tragedy. They then sent the full information to the "American Humane Society" of Denver, Colorado, as this is the Head office for "Haven".

Everyone connected with this investigation came to the conclusion that "Ladybird" and her mistress, Faye Brooks, certainly deserved public honor and acclaim. As a result, in May of this year, Mrs. Brooks and "Ladybird" were presented with the "STILLMAN AWARD for Bravery and Faithfulness".

We, of the Australian Shepherd Club of America, want to add our most sincere congratulations to both Mrs. Brooks and to "Ladybird". "Ladybird" is very typical of our breed in having the loyalty to try to help their owners no matter how adverse the conditions may be. Anyone who went through the terrible rains of 1969 can appreciate only too well how much misery the floods caused on the West Coast and what a terrible experience this was for Faye and her loving companion "Ladybird".

We pray that both of them experience nothing but happiness for the balance of their lives.

- Elsie B. Cotton

The ranch, "The Flying U", is located near 70 Mile House. When we arrived, George was busy saddling up for 16 guests who wished to go trail riding. He was so busy he didn't notice we were there for other reasons, and he saddled a couple horses for Bruce and me too. We didn't use the horses but George's teenage sister put them to use by taking out two girls who worked there at the ranch cleaning guest houses and doing other jobs about the place. The ranch has no trouble hiring help, for there is always a waiting list of applicants from which they select the most favorable persons.

We liked the layout of the home ranch which is three miles long bordering Green Lake and one mile wide. The ranch is probably a hundred years old and is perfectly suited to being a guest ranch situated in "the Arizona of Canada", the picturesque dryland ranges of the Cariboo country in British Columbia. On this ranch they raise most of their hay and run 100 head of hereford cattle, approximately 85 head of horses, and a jack and a jenny donkey as well as other ranch livestock. By a quick count in the saddle room, we estimated they had 75 saddles with a bridle for each. This is the most impressive array of Western saddles I have ever seen, there being a great variety of riggings, horns and trees, most of them oldtimers that must have seen many a mile under a cowboy on the range in the earlier days. Only very few of the saddles were new and all of them were well cared for.

George told us they plan on accommodating 65 guests, and can saddle out that many horses. During the summer they are booked solid until school starts, and even afterward. "We don't leave our guests on their own; we make sure they enjoy themselves." George said. They have group trail rides twice a week and the rest of the days the guests can request a horse saddled to ride alone or with company. Guests go boating and water skiing on the lake, go fishing or hiking, or just relax and watch ranch activities. The cabins and the lodge have a lovely view of the lake which is 16 miles long and a mile wide at the biggest point.

As soon as we arrived, we got to know the mother of Larry's dog, the female from Kamloops, B.C. called "Digger". She was busy keeping tabs on all the guests and the activities of saddling up the horses. She has a level temperament, not excessively friendly nor is she shy or standoffish. When George rode out to run the donkeys in, she went along and was right in there in the chase. She was still trying to get at the young jenny after it was loaded. (Continued on Page Nineteen)

George got her as a young dog from a breeder at Kamloops. She was bred back to the dogs at Kamloops, B.C. to produce the litter from which Larry Jones got his dog. "Digger" works directly behind a cow and when it kicks, she crouches or ducks below the cow's kicking range.

During the excitement we could hear another dog barking in the barn directly behind the saddle room. As soon as he was free, George took us there. He explained he kept the young male tied when he was working around the horses because he preferred to use him on cattle where his working style really shines. "Cobbler" is a prettier dog than his mate "Digger", having more distinct coloring. "Cobbler" works behind a cow also, but he is just slightly to the side of a cow's kick area, and he loses no time in a crouch because the cow always misses him.

After getting to like "Digger" the Gammies decided to get a mate for her so they wrote to the Department of Agriculture in Perth, Australia, asking for advice on a dog to get. They recommended contacting Lance Barnett, Kalamunda, Victoria, Australia, who is a consistent winner with his dogs at stockdog trials. So in February he shipped them a male pup which they named "Cobbler". The Gammies are looking forward to their first litter of pups from their two dogs. Whether you want a Cattle Dog pup or prefer reservations for a relaxing summer, you can contact Mr. & Mrs. Geo. Gammie, "Flying U Ranch", 70 Mile House, B.C., Canada. Hospitality is tops!

Stockmen's Corner

" SHOW CATTLE "
By Tom D. Stodghill

Producing show cattle is much easier to do than to produce good working dogs because you can see the type and color of the cattle, and in dogs, it is the temperament that counts.

There are hundreds of different ways you can breed to produce one great animal but when you get one perfect animal that is exactly what you want, that great bull can be reproduced over and over again by breeding him to as many cows as possible, then breed Clock-Wise. The more cows you breed to him and the more generations they are bred Clock-Wise and the more cows that are all blended together and by holding 50% of that one great hub bull, the more the calves will be like the original bull.

What I mean by breeding Clock-Wise is breeding half brothers and half sisters together, always breeding to hold 50% of the same hub sire and bringing all new blood through the dam's side of the breeding program. Always strengthen the hub sire side and weaken the dam side of the Clock-Wise bred registered cattle, breeding to always blend as many different females together as possible.

If three men with registered cows that are breeding for show cattle will buy a bull sired by the same hub show bull, these three men all have the same breed of registered cows, all a little different line but bulls carrying 50% of the controlling gene of one great show bull. These three bulls out of cows as much unrelated as possible all have the same sire.

Now Austin, Bell and Crane want to blend the three herds all together and hold the good qualities of the great hub sire. Austin buys a bull from Bell, Bell buys a bull from Crane and Crane buys a bull from Austin. Since all registered cattle in the same breed are more or less related and you are breeding registered hereford cattle and you have located a great show bull that has all the good qualities you want in your future herd of registered exhibition hereford, now to be sure to get as much new blood as possible, buy as many cows as possible as much different in color as you can get. Your hub bull isn't too dark or too light; he is a good medium bright red so buy cows that are as dark as possible, then buy cows as light red as possible. You are doing this to get as much new blood as you possibly can. You can also see a difference in the texture of the hair - fine hair and heavy hair, curly and straight. There are many ways you can choose cows which you can see are just a little different from your great hub sire.

Also remember there is a lot of difference in the minerals in the soil. West Texas grass has more minerals than East Texas grass and the State of Colorado has more minerals and cattle grow larger there. I knew of a pair of registered twin hereford heifer calves out of a leading show herd in Texas. One of these twin hereford calves went to a breeder in Colorado. About 10 years later these twin heifers met at a hereford show. Believe it or not the twin sister from Colorado was 400 pounds larger than her twin sister that stayed in Texas. So you see, feed, grass and management makes a difference in size of cattle.

We can test the soil and add minerals but there isn't anything like the natural environment and native grass with minerals in the soil. In selecting a herd of registered cattle, a man needs to know all these things. The 400 pound difference in the twin hereford cows demonstrates what good breeding will do, if a cow gets everything it needs. But a calf from the twin hereford cows that was 400 pounds larger will have a better start in life as it will get the benefit of all this extra feed it's mother had.

East Texas pastures are gaining on West Texas as people are testing the soil, sodding all kinds of grasses and clover with good sandy soil, gets more rain than West Texas and adding mineral and fertilizer to the soil, East Texas is raising more cattle as you can raise so much hay and pasture most of the time and often have winter pasture all winter. In selecting breeding stock, don't let good feed and management fool you!

" CROSS BREEDING "
By Tom D. Stodghill

The ARF has done a lot of work on cross breeding registered cattle. There is one thing to remember, you need to understand registered cattle and how to breed show cattle and get mass production of show cattle all very much alike before you try cross breeding. One thing for sure, you have to know more to make any progress cross breeding than you need to know to raise good registered cattle. On registered cattle you should get good cattle regardless how you breed. When you cross breed cattle and hold your color and your type and develop a herd all alike, you have to use a controlling gene from one great breed of cattle. It is a proven fact that the more breeds of cattle blended together into one great breed, the weaker controlling gene it takes to make the cattle all alike.

As hogs and dogs breed so much faster than cattle and horses, the ARF has had a lot of advantages over most people with cross bred breeding programs. As we get large litters of pups and pigs and a lot of times can carry on a number of breeding programs out of one litter of pups, it takes twice as strong of a controlling gene to control the mental disposition of a dog as it does to control color and type.

The ARF is still working on a deal to set up a foundation hub breeding farm to produce 50% French Charla that carry 50% poled breeding that can be used to breed to cross bred herds of cattle and get white poled calves. This will make it possible to blend all breeds of cross bred cattle into one great breed of White-Gold Cattle. The strong point of these White-Gold Cattle will be perpetual hybrid vigor.

In the old system of cross breeding with no thought in mind for perpetual hybrid vigor, there isn't any future to that system of breeding. There are thousands of these herds that can be blended into the White-Gold Cattle by using a foundation hub bull that carries 50% French Charolais blood. This would put 25% controlling gene in the White-Gold Cattle; then breed Clock-Wise to hold 25% controlling gene and as these 50% Charolais bulls also carry a 50% poled breeding, by breeding Clock-Wise and blending all breeds together, this would make all White-Gold Poled D'Lish Cattle.

Mr. Dale Hart, Route #2, Friona, Texas 79035, who has a herd of show milk-ing short horn cattle, will be showing his cattle at the State Fair this coming Fall. He is making plans to set up a Foundation Hub Breeding Farm by using his very finest exhibition Poled Short Horn Cows bred to 100% pure French Charolais bulls in order to produce these 50% French Charolais to produce bulls to develop a new breed of White-Gold Cattle.

" LARGEST BREEDING FARM IN COUNTRY "

By Tom D. Stodghill

A few weeks ago I visited the Lucy and Bill Guynes Breeding Farm, Route #1, Box 65B, Weatherford, Texas.

They are believed to be the largest breeders in the world of Australian Cattle Dogs. They have the healthiest and cleanest place I have ever seen and more dogs than I have ever seen before. All their dogs are registered in the Animal Research Foundation.

Lucy and Bill Guynes also have something special and unusual to show up in the Australian Cattle Dogs which they call

"Texas Healers". In fact, there is enough difference between the two breeds to have a new breed as the "Texas Healers" have something special when it comes to work, and the blue eye also shows up in the "Texas Healers".

They are indeed something special and the name seems to fit them perfectly. I went over to the Guynes' Breeding Farm to inspect the "Texas Healers" and sure enough they do have a breed all of their own. The Guynes' farm is something to see and so are their dogs...both breeds!
